

CSR Values

While there is an interesting change in attitude regarding preference to work at a company that practices good CSR, there is less of an interest in buying products from companies that follow CSR practices. Nevertheless, almost half the respondents claimed that they would rather buy products from companies practicing "CSR."